NxTech, Incorporated and New London County Mutual Announce Seamless Implementation of Transformation Station™ and TransactNOW™

Cincinnati, Ohio (April 21, 2006) – NxTech, Incorporated, a leading provider of real-time interface, systems integration, data management and interactive web development, is making it easier for carriers across the country to implement industry real-time transactions using ConneXt.

NxTech ConneXt is a component based XML toolset configured and enhanced for each solution. ConneXt extends a carrier's systems by defining information adaptors to allow participation in Industry Solutions. Together, NxTech and New London County Mutual implemented ConneXt for IVANS Transformation Station™ and AMS TransactNOW™ to enable insurance agents to process endorsements and access real-time policy, claims and billing inquiry information as part of their agency management system work routine.

Bill Tedrick, CEO at NxTech commented, "Standardized Real-Time interface that fits the agent workflow has long been the goal. A combination of our technology and agency management vendors' application of Real-Time in their systems gives agents the best of all worlds."

Thad Bauer, President at NxTech added, "By using NxTech's ConneXt, New London only needs to worry about one interface to manage their complete Agency real-time solution. When functional, reliable industry solutions are implemented, both the carrier and their agents benefit."

"Using NxTech to build one interface for our agents using Transformation Station™ and TransactNOW™ not only gave us a superior technical solution, but also gave us a solution that was sound from a business perspective. NxTech does a nice job of matching the business and technical requirements of the solution," says Carol Carlson, Insurance Software Manager at New London County Mutual.
